PROPOSALS TO TAKE TAX OFF FOOD OPPOSED

OFFICIALS CONTEND REVENUE BADLY NEEDED

BY WILLIAM R. MULLER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, July 6 (AP)—A blast of criticism against a proposed constitutional amendment to exempt foods and meals from taxes came today from state officials.

The critics' pronouncements came as the secretary of state's staff prepared for general distribution a summary of that and four other proposed amendments which will go before the voters November 3.

State Treasurer Theodore I. Fry reiterated his opposition to any attempt to tamper with the sales tax, voicing a belief that the exemptions of certain articles might result in invalidation of the entire act. He said the contemplated exemptions would reduce state revenues by between $10,000,000 and $14,000,000 a year. Sales tax accountants estimated the reduction at $12,000,000.

Can't Escape Tax

Fry contended the exemptions would remove an amount of revenue greater than the annual appropriation for relief work; four times the amount distributed annually for old age pensions, and nearly half the sum that now goes to school aid.

"The voters must remember," Fry warned, "that they are surely harnessing themselves with another form of tax if they approve the amendment. Either that, or they must prepare to get along without the money the state is giving them for welfare, or for aid to distressed schools, or go without other money the state is returning to local treasurerers."

Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald has avoided direct expressions on the proposal, but in discussion his hope for a building program to relieve crowded conditions in state mental institutions he said recently:

"This necessity wil cost money. It is imperiled every time a proposal is pushed to lower revenues from the state sale stax. Local municipalities want more school aid, additional relief money, but the voters also want the sales tax lowered. To have more money and less taxation is impossible."

Some sources looked for strong opposition from farmers to the proposed amendment. The amendment does not refer specifically to the state sales tax. It reads "to prohibit a tax on the sale of" foodstuffs, including vegetable shortenings. It is this point that opponents of the measure believed would arise the farmers' hostility.

Dairy interests have battled several times for a tax on butter substitutes. A constitutional amendment forbidding a tax on vegetable shortenings would mean the end of their fight.

Secretary of State Orville E. Atwood was another critic of the amendment. He professed to be-

Twin Girls Born Joined Together, One Child Dies

Michigan City, Ind., July 6 (AP)—D. J. B. Rogers said today he holds little hope of saving the life of a twin girl whose sister lived but fifteen minutes after they were born with a bone fusion at the base of the brain.

The twins were born this morning to Mrs. Wesley Glick. The largest, weighing five and one-half pounds, died soon after being born. The surviving twin weighed three and one-half pounds.

Dr. Rogers, obstretician at Clinic hospital, said he considered an operaion to save the life of the surviving baby would be futile.

The babies were joined in a manner similar to that of the twins born last week to Mrs. Diego Fiorenzo at a Boston suburb. An operation performed to save the life of one of the Fiorenzo babies was unsuccessful.

The babies were the first children born to Mr. and Mrs. Glick.

POLICE ARREST STATE SENATOR

Lee A. Gorman Is Held on Child Abandonment Charge

Detroit, July 6 (AP)—Detroit detectives sought State Senator Lee A. Gorman, 39, today for questioning in connection with a warrant charging child abandonment after, police reported, he fled from an apartment when they sought to question him.

Detective Chief Henry Piel said the warrant was issued in Milwaukee in 1928, and bore the name "Grimm." It charged he abandoned his former wife and their three children there.

Court records in Milwaukee show that Lee Albert Grimm and his first wife were divorced in 1926, and that Mrs. Grimm was awarded $23 a month for the support of the children.

In 1928 Grimm was brought into court for failure to pay, and was given 24 hours to make up the arrears. His former wife, who married Arthur Wolfgram after she and Grimm were divorced, said Grimm disappeared, and that she had not seen him since.

"Scared Witless"

Piel said detectives were asked to detain Gorman for questioning after his former wife determined through correspondence with the veteran's administration that he had received his soldier's bonus here under the name of Albert Lee Grimm.

Detectives reported that Gorman outwitted them last Friday when they went to his home. "Why, that's not me," they quoted him as saying. "My name has always been Gorman. Wait here a minute and I'll get my discharge papers and prove it to you."

The officers said they waited for a few minutes, and when they heard a noise outside, hurried out to see Gorman disappear around the building.

The detective chief said he was informed by Frank Bolle, former circuit court clerk and friend of Gorman, that he would surrender Tuesday. He said Bolle told him Gorman had been in hiding "because he was scared witless."

Missing Prison Trustees Hunted

Jackson, Mich., July 6 (AP)—State prison guards and state police spread a hunt through this vicinity tonight for Jesse Winchell, 31, and Carl Queen, 31, trustees who fled this afternoon from the southern Michigan prison cow barns.

No trace of the fugitives had been reported late tonight.

Winchell was serving five to ten years for assault with intent to rape. He was sentenced from Newaygo county last September. Queen was sentenced from Lenawee county last November to serve one and one-half to five years for entering without breaking.

4 ARSONISTS SENT TO JAIL

Get 6 Months Terms and Placed on Probation for 3 Years

Detroit, July 6 (AP)—Six months in jail for arson was ordered today at Pontiac for four men, first to be sentenced since the investigation of Black Legion terrorism in Michigan began a month ago. A fifth man and the other four were placed on probation for three years.

The five men pleaded guilty a week ago to charges of burning a workers camp in Oakland county on April 3, 1933. They said they went to the camp with other Black Legion men who suspected communistic teachings.

Those given jail sentences and three years probation were Harry P. Davis, 40, of Flint, Mich.; James E. Bader, 51, Randall Wilson, 28, and Gordon Smith, 29, all of Pontiac. Bader's son, George, 23, was placed on probation without the jail sentence.

Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick, who sentenced the men, said he was convinced they were "underlings" in the secret society.

"I hope we are able to convict the higher-ups," Judge Hartrick said.

In Detroit, Charles Rouse was held for trial on charges of obstruction of justice and with being an accessory after the fact in the Black Legion slaying of Charles A. Poole last May 13.

Dayton Dean, the confessed gunman in the Poole shooting, told Recorder's Judge Edward J. Jeffries that he took his two pistols and Black Legion robe to Rouse's house in a suitcase about a week after the slaying. Rouse denied he received the pistols, which have not been found.

ORGANIZERS IN STEEL PLANTS FEAR TROUBLE

VIOLENCE PLANNED BY COMPANIES, LEWIS SAYS

Washington, July 6. (AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, predicted tonight that the steel industry would "deliberately provoke strife and bloodshed" in the labor organization campaign now underway.

In a radio speech made in connection with the organizing campaign, Lewis said that the American Iron and Steel Institute had given labor an "open warning" in full-page newspaper advertisements last week that "the ruthless forces of the steel oligarchy will be unloosed against" organizers.

"From bitter experience we know what this means," he added.

"It means that meetings of steel employees will be disrupted by thugs and hoodlums employed by the steel corporations; that the organizers themselves will be brutally beaten; that the police and judicial authorities of steel manufacturing communities, who are designated and dominated by the steel companies, will be used to arrest labor union organizers, to imprison them on false charges, to maltreat them cruelly while imprisoned, and in many cases forcibly to drive them from the community.

Peaceful Campaign

"Moreover, it is to be emphasized that when the pronouncement of the Steel Institute states it 'fears' industrial strife and dislocations may develop, it really means that as the organizing campaign of our committee is meeting with success, the steel corporations themselves, through their private legions of armed guards, despicable under-cover spies and agents provocateurs will deliberately provoke strife and bloodshed, and attempt to place the blame for its occurence upon the representatives of legitimate labor.

"In this connection I wish to add with all the earnestness at my command that, if any strike, violence or bloodshed occurs as a result of the present efforts of our committee to organize the steel workers, it will not arise from our organizers or their activities.

"We shall pursue our purpose relentlessly but legally and peacefully.

"I wish also solemnly to warn those who represent the steel industry that their unlawful, ruthless tactics of former years will not be tolerated by our committee. x x x

"We shall also bring to justice anyone in the steel industry who is guilty of lawlessness.

"This does not mean merely the subordinate officials of the

Fr. Coughlin Predicts Representatives Will Elect Next President

Philadelphia, July 6. (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, founder of the National Union for Social Justice, said tonight "I believe the election of the president this year will be thrown into the house of representatives."

Father Coughlin, in a press conference, made the prediction in response to a request for his estimate of the size vote the Lemke-O'Brien Union party ticket will poll in November. He said the National Union for Social Justice alone can contribute 10,000,000 votes.

He said he believed no candidate would receive a majority in the electoral college, necessitating an election by the house, in which each state would be entitled to one vote.

The Detroit priest, who later addressed a private meeting of members of the National Union, said the organization has shown a decided growth since announcement that Representative Lemke was a candidate for president. He said he would classify the majority of its members as Normal Republicans, many of whom may have voted for President Roosevelt in 1932.

"There is a 'no man's land' in American politics," he said, "comprising about 30 per cent of the electorate — people who change from election to election."

He stated a large part of the support for Lemke would come from these voters.

Father Coughlin commented, "The assertion of Earl Browder (Communist candidate for president) that the Union party was a creation of 'Hearst and the Liberty league' is simply a Democratic blurb against us. Mr. Browder has affiliated himself with the Democrats.

"Mr. Hearst and I have nothing in common. I met the gentleman only once. We talked for about 15 minutes and politics was never mentioned.

"I have nothing against Mr. Landon. Only I understand that a few months ago Mr. Landon asked Mr. Roosevelt for something like $30,000,000 for farmers in the west. In the meantime he has apparently changed his attitude and gone back to the gold standard—which helped wreck civilization."

Labor Leaders Map Steel Unionization Drive

Mapping a campaign for organization of 500,000 workers in the steel industry, four of the nation's most powerful labor leaders are shown here in Washington. Following the conference, John L. Lewis, driving force back of the unionization move, declared the campaign would be "strikeless" unless war was forced on labor by the steel chiefs. Left to right are Sidney Hillman, Amalgamated Clothing Workers' president; Lewis, Mine Workers' head; Phillip Murray, Mine Workers' vice president; and John Brophy, director of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

REBEL LEADERS ORDERED SHOT

17 Insurgents Doomed for Bloody Revolt in Japan

BY GLENN BABB
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Tokyo, July 7 (Tuesday) (AP)—Seventeen leaders of Japan's bloody February coup were condemned to speedy death today by a high military court.

There is no appeal. Hence the seventeen, two of them captains in the emperor's proud army, probably will be shot within a matter of days.

With the powerful war minister, General Count Juichi Terauchi, presiding, the court also handed down sentences of life imprisonment for five conspirators and ordered prison terms ranging from 18 months to 15 years for 44 non-commissioned officers and eight civilians.

Sentences of 27 lesser offenders were suspended.

The charges were murder, rebellion and disobedience to the commands of the emperor himself, and by the punishment they meted out, the military leaders of Japan disclosed the strength of their will to stamp out the cult of assassination and direct action which has flourished among the army's younger officers since the Manchurian conquest of 1931.

Heading the list of those sentenced to die for the bloody incidents in which three elder statesmen were cut down in their homes and Kiesuke Okada, then premier, missed death by minutes, was Captain Teruzo Ando, of the third infantry regiment.

Ando, with Capt. Shiro Nonaka, allegedly shared command of the insurrection. Nonaka killed himself; so did Flight Captain Hishashi Kono. Ando tried to do the same, but was merely wounded, and recovered.

State Police Launch New Campaign Against Reckless Car Drivers

BY G. MILTON KELLY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, July 6 (AP)—A holiday week-end that cost 24 lives in motorcar accidents spurred the Michigan state police today to a new campaign to drive the reckless driver from the highways.

Oscar G. Olander, state police commissioner, revealed he would ask Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald for funds with which to add 150 to 200 men to the highway patrol.

Lieutenant Caesar Scarvarda, in charge of traffic safety work for the state police, said an addition of 200 men would give the department an adequate staff.

Such a request ultimately would have to go to the augmented state administrative board, which alone has power to appropriate.

Nation's Playground

A nation-wide Associated Press survey showed that Michigan, which is spending approximately $950,000 in a federally-financed traffic safety campaign, had the highest automobile death toll over the Fourth of July week-end. Its 26 dead compared with 20 dead in Texas, the second high state, and 18 dead in Ohio, third high.

Commissioner Olander pointed out, however, that "Michigan, while it had the greatest number of deaths, probably also had the greatest number of holiday motorists. This state has become the nation's playground. A swarm of motor cars onto highways that are inadequately patrolled is bound to result in many serious accidents.

He predicted that the work the safety survey is accomplishing, if bolstered with an adequate highway patrol, "in other years will make the highways safe."

Before leaving for the upper peninsula for a week's speaking tour, Governor Fitzgerald issued a holiday proclamation which he warned that if the number of traffic fatalities were large "it would not be unreasonable to assume that the time has come to tackle this problem in a new way and with a firmer hand."

Scavarda said the state police have a maximum of about 100 pieces of motorized equipment with which to patrol Michigan's 83,000 miles of trunklines and improved roads. "Such a task with so few men is just a gesture," he said. "A survey has shown us where we need the men, but we lack a staff of adequate size to meet the situation."

COSTLY HOLIDAY

Chicago, July 6 (AP) — The double holiday of July Fourth was celebrated by the nation at a cost of 444 lives, revised fatality tables tonight disclosed.

The list was the second longest for the country's holiday in nine years and exceeded only by the 483 of 1931 for the past six years. In 1931 as this year was a two day holiday period.

With millions of cars on the highways, motor vehicle accidents led all other causes of accidental death with a 254 aggregate. Drownings number 104. Various other accidents contributed the remainder.

BORAH PLEDGES BACKING TO GOP

Senator Says He Has No Intention to Bolt Party Ticket

BY WALTER R. BOTTCHER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Boise, Idaho, July 6 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah pledged allegiance today to the Republican ticket and platform.

"I have no intention of bolting the ticket," said the veteran Republican, adding

"I am supporting the platform and I have been supporting the platform from the beginning.

Thus, in a long-awaited clarification, Borah removed the expressed doubts of many leaders from Boise to Washington regarding his stand in the campaign.

At Topeka, Kans., the Republican presidential nominee, Gov. Alf M. Landon, said, "I am happy to have the cooperation of Senator Borah in this campaign."

Borah still withheld definite announcement of his intentions regarding seeking a sixth term—but he did not deny a friend's flat statement he will run again.

The friend, W. Scott Hall of Malad, Idaho, a follower of the "Lion of Idaho" for 25 years, said after a conference:

"I am convinced Senator Borah will be a candidate for reelection."

The expectation of some friends is that the 71-year-old statesman will come out definitely within the next few days. July 11 is the deadline for filing nomination petitions in Idaho.

Hall disclosed that petitions for Borah are in the hands of a lawyer friend.

Soo Voters Turn Down Bond Issue

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 6. (AP)—A proposal to bond the city of Sault Ste. Marie for not more than $80,000 for construction of a community building and ice rink lost by a vote of 509 to 235 at a special election here today. Only one of ten precincts returned a vote in favor of the project.

Mayor Of Zion, Ill., Dies At Waukegan

Zion, Ill., July 6 (AP)—William M. Edwards, 48, mayor of Zion and the first independent leader to hold a major office in this religious community for 20 years, died tonight in a hospital at Waukegan, Ill. Edwards had been suffering from diabetes for some time.

Until six years ago, when he broke with Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva, Edwards was a deacon in Voliva's church. As leader of the independent forces, he deposed Voliva as political boss of the community in last year's election.

Brown Reappointed To Examining Board

Lansing, July 6. (AP)—Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald appointed Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace, Democratic congressman, today, to succeed himself as a member of the state board of law examiners.

GRAIN PRICES RISE AS FARM BELT SIZZLES

MERCURY SOARS TO 119 DEGREES IN SOME AREAS

Chicago, July 6 (AP)—The tempo of drought's wide sweeping drama quickened today as 100-110 degree heat beat mercilessly down for the fourth straight day over much of the midwest.

The general weather bureau office at Washington said no rain was in sight for the grain states for another 36 hours after three days of what it termed the "most trying and damaging period of the drought so far."

With its monetary destruction already figured past the quarter billion dollar mark, the dry spell scored new inroads and the Illinois authorities declared rains this week were badly needed by the all important corn crop if serious injury were to be averted.

Heat records of many years standing were melted down today. The first detachment of more than 2,000 North Dakota farmers grabbing at WPA jobs to sustain their families went to work in temperatures the highest of the year in many places.

A new all time high of 116 degrees was established at Jamestown at 11:45 p. m.

Roads "Blowing Up"

Most of North Dakota was intensely hot with Fort Yates, in Sioux county, recording an official 119 degrees.

Temperatures only one degree lower were recorded in Napoleon and Jamestown, both deep in the state's drought zone. The official maximum of 118 at Napoleon topped a 47 year mark.

Other North Dakota temperatures were officially: McClusky, 117; Valley City, 116; Bismarck, 114 and Devils Lake 112.

Highways were reported "blowing up" in parts of Illinois where 100 degree heat was general outside Chicago.

Weather bureau forecasters said it was likely new seasonal highs for much of the heat belt would be recorded. Yesterday new all time high of 119 was reached for the vicinity of Kennebec, S. D.

A graphic scene of the drought's day came to pass on the 5 cent limit and other gains similarly affected, trading reached a stalemate soon after. Brokers left the Pit and business reached a standstill. Closing quotations were at the top, new seasonal highs for all cereals, with September wheat $1.06½.

While heads of the AAA, WPA and resettlement administration which has announced a farreaching program for removal of drought ruined farmers to more tillable localities, met in Washington to report the progress of federal relief plans to President Roosevelt, state agencies stepped up the pace of their activities.

WPA Ignored In Dedication Plans

Mackinac Island, July 6 (AP)—Clark B. Ladd, superintendent of the Mackinac Island state park, said tonight he had received a complaint that the works progress administration was "ignored" in tthe announcement of plans for dedication next Saturday of a replica of Fort Homes, constructed on Mackinac Island.

The complaint, Ladd said, was made in a telephone conversation late today by Richard A. Lawson, WPA district supervisor of Cheboygan, Mich. He quoted Lawson as indicating an intention to lay the protest before Manferd Burleigh of Detroit, cheirman of the park commission.

Fort Holmes, built on the island in 1812 by the British, was destroyed by fire in 1933. The fort has been reconstructed, and will be dedicated with services at which former Governor Chase S. Osborn will speak.

Woman Will Spring Trap At Execution

Owensboro, Ky., July 6 (AP)—Mrs. Florence Thompson, 42, brunet, sheriff of Daviess county said today she would spring the trap when Rainey Bethea, 22, negro, is hanged here July 31 for rape.

"It comes in my line of duty, and I'll have to do it as I see it," she explained.

Mrs. Thompson, mother of four children, recently was named sheriff, succeeding her husband, deceased.

PROPOSAL TO TAKE TAX OFF FOOD OPPOSED

lieve it would lay the ground work for a court fight that might involve the entire tax administration.

No. 3 On Ballot

The food tax exemption will be the No. 3 issue on the ballots. The first to appear will be one sponsored by the state crime commission as a threat to gangsters. It would amend the search and seizure section of the constitution to permit the use as criminal evidence of any weapon confiscated from the motorcar or person of a suspect, regardless of whether the seizure were authorized by a warrant or made during a proper arrest.

The legislative-initiated proposal to permit counties to incorporate, restrict their tax rates, and their power to borrow and contract debts, will be No. 2 on the ballots. Counties by referendum, could adopt a charter under which they could pass laws and ordinances relating to all of their municipal business. The proposal is described loosely as a "county home rule" amendment.

The food tax exemptions, No. 3 on the ballots, would forbid the taxing of sales of bread, milk, dairy and cereal products, meat, lard, vegetable shortening, fish, eggs, sugar, salt, spices, vegetables and fruit, canned or fresh, and prepared meals.

The last of the four proposed amendments will be one which would abolish all local property taxes and substitute for them a state tax on income from real and personal property and from all other sources. The legislature would determine by general law the allocation of the proposed income taxe revenues back to local municipalities.

A majority vote at the general election would write any or all of the proposed amendments into the constitution.

Other developments in the campaign:

Pittsburgh.—Vincent Sweeney, representative of the Steel Workers' organizing committee, said a "tentative" agreement had been reached with officials of the Wheeling Steel corporation to settle the strike at its Portsmouth, O., plant.

Philip Murray, vice president of the mine union and campaign director, said that steel producers would be asked to negotiate a contract with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, "when the progress of the campaign warrants."

New Orleans.—The national labor relations board asked the circuit court of appeals to reconsider its decision that the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation need not recognize the Amalgamated as exclusive representative of its Aliquippa, Pa., employees.

League Votes To Bury Sanctions

Geneva, July 6 (AP) — The League of Nations arranged a final and unceremonious burial today for sanctions, the last hope of conquered Ethiopia.

By unanimous vote, Geneva's coordinating committee set July 15 as the date on which the powers may formally suspend the financial and economic measure they adopted against Italy in a vain attempt to stop the African war.

"What difference does it make? Sanctions are already dead," exclaimed the Peruvian delegate, Dr. Francisco Tudela Yvarela, to cut short an argument on the date of the suspension.

The league assembly has yet to ratify the committee's decision.

Indian Dies In Car After July 4 Party

Jack Akins, an Indian employed in the Buckeye Camps, near Trenary, died unexpectedly July 4. He went to Rapid River with two other Indians and spent some time in a tavern there. Upon returning home, he apparently fell asleep and his companions were unable to arouse him. When the party returned to the camp it was learned that Akins was dead. The man's companions said that they had been drinking beer. The body was taken to the Murphy funeral home. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Republicans Will Spend 3 Millions

Estes Park, Colo., July 6 (AP)—The Republican campaign will cost between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, William B. Bell, of New York, chairman of the party's national finance committee predicted today.

Bell, who left here today for Chicago to meet John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, after conferring with the party's presidential nominee, Gov. Alf M. Landon, last week, said the figure was a "rough estimate."

Delta County Farmers Paid $9.60 An Acre

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Washington.—County average rates of payments that will be made to farmers in the Corn Belt region for diverting acreage from the general soil-depleting crops to soil-conserving crops or uses under the 1936 Agricultural Conservation program are announced today by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

For most of the counties in Michigan, the average rate is somewhat above the national average of $10 an acre. Lenawee at $13.10 an acre and Monroe at $13.20 lead the Michigan list. The rates vary among the counties—within a range of $7.70 to $13.20 an acre—as the productivity of crop land in the counties compares with the productivity of all crop land in the United States. Within each county, rates for individual farms will depend on the productivity of each farm.

The county index was computed on the basis of the yields of 13 soil depleting crops harvested in the county during the 10 year period 1923-32 inclusive. Necessary adjustments were made for crop failure.

The soil-conserving payments which will be made to participating farmers in these typical counties are: Delta, $9.60; Menominee, $10.70; Grand Traverse, $9.40; Leelanau, $9.30; Wexford, $8.30; Montcalm, $9.80; Cass, $10.60; Ottawa, $11.40; Van Buren, $9.90; Branch, $11.10; Calhoun, $11.10; Ingham, $11.00; St. Joseph, $10.20; Lenawee, $13.10; Monroe, $13.20; Oakland, $11.00; Washtenaw, $12.00 per acre.

The payment rates apply only to diversion of acreage from the general soil-depleting crops such as corn, oats, wheat, and barley, for there are special rates made for shifts from cotton and tobacco acreage. Different payment rates are also set in connection with production of sugar beets and flax.

Progress Reported

An estimated 190,000 farm owners and tenants in Michigan will participate in the national soil conservation program. Some counties are almost ready to turn in complete sets of work sheets, fill out and set up county bases for participation and apply for the federal grants that will be paid on compliance, it is announced by Maurice Doan, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Conservation committee.

Although the last phases of the work preliminary to payments will include surveys of each farm to measure compliance and cannot be completed before fall, those counties which complete the present preliminary work first are likely to be the first to receive the benefit checks, according to the federal and state extension service.

The amount of money that will come into Michigan for participation in the program can only be estimated. Approximately nine million acres in the state are being considered for setting up state and county quotas. Three million acres are considered soil depleting, according to Chairman Doan. Conversion to soil maintaining crops could include 360,000 acres, which at an estimated $11 an acre average would pay farmers in the state $3,960,000 if all farmers participated in the program.

On the remaining six million acres now maintaining soil fertility, a maximum of $1 an acre could be paid for this maintenance of good practices, or a total payment to the 190,000 farmers of between five and six million dollars for the Class Two payments. Considering the late start and newness of the program, according to Mr. Doan, the program and acceptance by farmers has made good progress.

Fire Department Has Busy Weekend

The Escanaba fire department had four fire calls during the week-end, the most serious of which was at 317 First Avenue South the evening of July 4. Sparks from a firecracker which fell on the roof of the building owned by Mrs. Eastwood started the blaze which was put out after considerable damage had been done to the roof.

The department responded to a fire call at 319 North 10th street at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning. A bed was set afire by a lighted cigarette. At 11:40 Sunday morning the department was called to extinguish a grass fire near the Delta Taxi company, on the 200 block, Ludington street. Yesterday a shed fire at 111 Second avenue south was extinguished by the department.

Yachtsmen Return From Island Trip

The Escanaba Yacht club fleet cruise to Washington Island over the Fourth was a success in spite of the fact that there was a decided lack of wind both going and coming.

Some of the yachts required as much as twenty-three hours to reach their destination and the others were only a few hours ahead.

The return trip was about on the same order, with a very light east wind to start which later developed into a flat calm that lasted for six hours when a light northeast wind came up. During the calm period, the motor equipped yachts dropped sails and with motors running, ran for home, leaving the others waiting for wind.

Earl Marsh Wins Nod Over Hytinen

Earl Marsh won a decision over Andy Hytenin of Trenary in the feature bout of the outdoor boxing matches staged near the city dock the Fourth of July.

Eight bouts furnished snappy entertainment for over five hundred spectators with five local fighters getting judges decisions.

The flashiest bout of the card was between "Speck" Stienhoff, Munising, and Glenn Maki, Trenary, both in the 160 pound class. The first round belong definitely to the Trenary lad but Steinhoff, taking the blows with stolid indifference livened up in the second round and the fight ended in a knockout in the Munising boy's favor. Maki much speedier than Stienhiff seemed the inevitable victor but the swift turning of the tables in Stienhoff's favor offered a thrill to the spectators.

Other bouts and their results follow: Kid Severs of Marquette, was defeated by Jack St. Martin, of Munising, both in the 110 pound class. Allan Wagner took a decision from Flash Sweenor of Marquette also in the 110 class.

Officials for the matches were: Referees, Joe Artibee and Pete Arsenault; judges, William Mazzali, Arsenault and Artibee; timekeeper, Charles Wrona and Walter Corey; first aid, Laurel Peck and announcer, George Grenholm.

LaFave Candidate For County Office

Munising, July 6—The political donkey received another rider today in what appears to be a hotly contested race for county offices, when I. J. LaFave, justice of the peace and former license plate manager for the secretary of state's office announced his candidacy for the office of county treasurer on the Democratic ticket now held by Joseph Hase. Mr. LaFave, is the first to announce his candidacy for this office, although it is expected that Toivo Pellki, who opposed Mr. Hase two years ago will again become a candidate.

In commenting upon his determination to run for this office as a Democrat, Justice LaFave said:

"I feel at this time an obligation to my many friends in acceding to their requests by becoming a candidate for the office of county treasurer on the progressive Democratic ticket of this county. Personally, I feel and have been assured by my supporters that the Democratic party will furnish me a better medium in approaching the voting constituency in September."

AT THE DELFT

"San Francisco," which opened Sunday at the Delft Theatre, promises to become one of the most talked-about pictures in many, many months.

First, it teams three of the most popular screen stars for the first time—Clark Gable, Jeanete MacDonald and Spencer Tracy. It is a picture brimming with romance, love, comedy, beautiful music and excitement.

AT THE MICHIGAN

The Michigan treatre is presenting the Louis-Schmeling fight film, and the feature picture, "Murder on a Bridle Path" today and Wednesday. There will be three complete shows each day, and a matinee at 2:30 o'clock and evening performances at 7 and 9 o'clock.

The wise-cracking partners of current fiction's favorite sleuth team are in harness again, solving the most exciting case of their career in "Murder on a Bridle Path."

James Gleason and Helen Broderick are co-featured as the cocky, hard-boiled, Inspector Oscar Piper and his acid-tongued spinster partner Hildegarde Withers, who won popularity as characters in Stuart Palmer's novels and then in pictures adapted from them by RKO Radio.

"The Penguin Pool Murder.," "Murder on the Blackboard" and "Murder on a Honeymoon" are former Piper-Withers cases. They helped further the current trend of mystery melodramas that match thrills with laughs in equal proportions. "Murder on a Bridle Path" is reported one of the oustanding results of that trend, a crime-solving spree in which moments of tension are relieved by the pranks and quips of two of the cleverest comedy masters of the day.

Frank and John Negelski, Jr., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Aho at Manistique.

Welcome, M. F. of L.

ESCANABA extends a hearty welcome to the members of the Michigan Federation of Labor, which is holding its annual convention in this city this week.

The Michigan Federation of Labor is a state division of the American Federation of Labor, the largest labor union organization in the country. The federation was organized in 1881, but took its present name in 1886. Throughout the years, it has been working for the betterment of labor conditions and has been responsible in a large measure for much of the social legislation that has been enacted by the national congress and the various state legislatures.

The organization has always had conservative leadership. Samuel Gompers became its president in 1886 and remained the president until his death in 1924. He was then succeeded by the present incumbent, William Green.

Under the leadership of these men, the American Federation of Labor has fought economic radicalism as stoutly as employers do, proving that a well-organized labor movement can provide a stable labor condition in American industry. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that the shop employees of the Escanaba Daily Press have been organized as members of the International Typographical Union since 1911, and during that period the most amicable relations between the management and employees always have existed.

Escanaba always has been a good union community, and it is fitting that the Michigan Federation of Labor should hold one of its important conventions here. We hope that the delegates, many of whom are making their first trip to the Upper Peninsula, will enjoy their visit north of the Straits of Mackinac.

Indian Head Markers

APPROVAL of the proposal to use an Indian head for the design of roadside markers to designate places of scenic and historic interest was given in a resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Road Builders' association at Blaney Park.

In view of the fact that the Upper Peninsula has been widely publicized as Hiawathaland, the selection of the Indian head design would be appropriate. The value of the suggestion lies in the fact that it would be the first real effort to mark the highways under a coordinated plan to acquaint tourists with what this region offers beyond the well-beaten path.

Only a small percentage of the Upper Peninsula's beauty spots can be seen from the main highways. One must venture onto the sideroads and trails to see the outstanding attractions, such as sparkling waterfalls, scenic lakes and densely wooded areas. Now that the Road Builders' association has given its moral support to the Indian head marker idea, who is going to take up the proposal from here and put it into effect?

New Park Dedicated

The formal dedication of the new Shenandoah national park in Virginia gave President Roosevelt an occasion to reiterate his views on the problem of conserving the natural resources of this nation.

At the same time, the president's address and the other activities insident to the dedicatory ceremony served to give the official opening of the newest addition to the national park system much valuable nation-wide publicity, which should attract a large number of tourists during the year.

Preliminary development work and acquisition of land on Isle Royale for its eventual creation as another national park is continuing at a satisfactory pace. Present indications are that the land acquisition program should be completed to permit its official opening under the full administration of the National Park Service next summer.

Dedication of the Isle Royale national park at the time offers a splendid opportunity for the Upper Peninsula to share in the widespread advertising such an event would receive. Plans for the event should be made in ample time in advance to assure the realization of the greatest amount of benefit that is possible.

Hi-Y On The Highway

THE PROBLEM of the young driver has been taken up by one of the national organization sbest fitted to deal with it—the National Hi-Y Council of the Y. M. C. A. The Council has just published, with the cooperation of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, a manual entitled "The Hi-Y on the Highway", a guidebook for bringing Hi-Y Clubs everywhere into active participation in the traffic control movement.

This manual was used as the basis for a discussion of the young driver and his obligations at the National Hi-Y Congress recently at Berea, Kentucky. Dr. Herbert J. tSack, Director of Youth Education for the National Buheau, started the discussion of emphasizing that motor vehicle commissioners and police chiefs the country over complain that the accident record of young drivers is definitely worse than that of adult motorists.

The young driver, Dr. Stack said, is frequently charged with bad driving attitudes. These, rather than inferior knowledge or skill, seem to account for his poor accident record. He likes to show off. He takes unnecessary chances. He is discourteous. Two remedies for the situation suggest themselves. The first, a repressive measure, would keep the young driver off the road by raising legal driving age to 18 or 19. The second, put forward by those who object to the first as being prohibitive rather than progressive, would provide facilities for giving the youngster a proper understanding of the automobile and his relationship to it. This would mean an extension of the present educational trend toward teaching good driving in the high schools.

The Hi-Y can fit splendidly into this scheme. It is precisely the organization to extend the principles of traffic control learned in the classroom into extra-curricular activity. Setting up a traffic control council, formulating a school traffic control program, developing good driving attitudes are projects for which the Hi-Y is well equipped. We may hope that the Hi-Y on the highway will prove to be a strong constructive influence in making the country's young drivers good drivers.

Protection at Beach

ASSIGNMENT of a lifeguard at the Ludington Park beach by the Red Cross and the Escanaba park board assures parents of a safe place for their children to go swimming this summer.

Hundreds of children and adults are already taking advantage of the beach which has been temporarily equipped for this purpose until the completion of the city's ambitious waterfront development project on the south shore.

Serious dangers lurk in the isolated unprotected streams and lakes, where some children are wont to go. These hazards are minimized if they engage in their aquatic sports at a beach where they can be under the watchful eye of a lifeguard, who has been trained under the supervision of the Red Cross in the fundamental rules of water safety.

'Wholesome Change'

ATTORNEY GENERAL HOMER CUMMINGS is highly optimistic about the future of criminal law administration in the United States. Already he notes that the attitude of the American people toward crime has undergone a "wholesome change."

Of course, Mr. Cummings takes pride in the accomplishments of the G-men. He is glad that they have been able to "deal with the criminal operations of individuals and gangs whose activities had made American justice a subject of wonder to the rest of the world."

And here the attorney general strikes a vital point.

The "wholesome change" in the public's attitude certainly can be attributed largely to this new achievement in law enforcement that the G-men have brought us.

If we glorify the officer instead of the gangster, it is because justice has delivered, as we have a right to expect it to deliver in America.

No Room in New York

ONE hundred twenty-two New York social agencies have joined in issuing a warning to the jobless girls of the nation. It is, "Don't come to New York!"

Out-of-town girls, without adequate funds, without definite plans, in search of employment and "fun," will likely get neither in the big city, it is pointed out.

Instead, the danger of exploitation constantly menaces the uninitiated, unprotected women who come to the metropolis unprepared.

"We in New York say to girls throughout the country," the social workers declare, "that no matter what hard conditions there are at home, they are better off to stay there"—timely advice that shouldn't be passed up.

COMMENDABLE CONSIDERATION
(Soo News)

ONE of the most notable and noble engagements ever entered into by an employer is being arranged by the Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper Company, Honorable James MacNaughton, President, at Calumet, Michigan.

The Conglomerate Lode—the oldest and most important mine of the Calumet and Hecla—will be wholly exhausted within the next year and a half or two years. As each shaft is being worked out and shut down, it means dispensing with the services of the men working in that branch. Inasmuch as there is no prospect at present of further employment of these men by the Calumet and Hecla, that company has set up a Severance of Employment Fund, from which such employes are paid a liberal lump sum upon termination of their services. This is to help tide them over until they can get employment elsewhere. It makes no difference where they secure work, in Calumet or Houghton County or any other place. These payments are made irrespective of where the employes may live in the future. The sums granted to the employes are graduated according to the length of time each has been connected with the Calumet and Hecla.

There is no law on earth, except that of decency and consideration, that compels the Calumet and Hecla to do this thing. Just the same, they are doing it. If more employers, big and little, were as considerate, the chasm between employer and employe and between capital and labor, would be bridged sentimentally and practically. The nearer the employer gets to the employe with a feeling of considerate, practical interest, the better for both of them.

Unfortunately, it is too often the case that these relations are delayed and often completely prevented by labor leaders, who agitate in a manner to prevent a community of understanding between employer and employe. We believe in organized labor, but we deplore the sad fact that labor as organized is too often misled.

It is a happiness in this connection to applaud Honorable James MacNaughton of the Calumet and Hecla upon this heartful human adventure.

An Ohio garageman-astronomer is agog over his discovery of a new comet. If he is absent-minded, some of his customers probably have been paying him the distance to it.

In his escape, by leaping a fence, Zioncheck again reveals that he's unique. Any other congressman would have been caught when, by force of habit, he straddled.

Your Nation's Affairs

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—President Roosevelt has a fine chance to start making good on his acceptance speech when he appoints the five members of the new Maritime Authority, which will plan, build up, regulate, and subsidize the American merchant marine.

DANIEL C. ROPER

But it will be practically a miracle if this commission is kept out of the hands of the shipping promoters who have been draining huge profits from federal subsidies ever since the war and have left the taxpayers with a pitifully inadequate merchant fleet.

The new ship subsidy act, latest of many efforts to expand the merchant marine, was a victory for those who sought safeguards against the predatory promoters who have dominated Secretary of Commerce Roper's shipping board bureau and continued the scandals of previous administrations.

The shipping lobbyists shrieked in anguish after frantic efforts to defeat it.

The victory will be empty unless an authority is appointed which will make those safeguards operative. The subsidy lobby seeks to pack the commission and its staff with as many friends, "plants," stooges, and pipe-lines as it can get in.

—LOBBY BOOSTS McINTYRE—

Operators are said to be making a strong drive for appointment of White House Secretary Marvin McIntyre as one of the five commissioners. Big-hearted "Mac" has always been their pal.

Some who know Roosevelt's mind believe that McIntyre has been a sufficient embarrassment in his present job to cause the president to consider him seriously for one of the merchant marine posts.

If Shipping Board Director J. C. Peacock and Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. M. Johnson were also appointed, the set-up would be perfect for the promoters. Johnson once boasted of his merchant marine knowledge to a Senate committee by saying "I can handle a small boat as well as any man in this room."

Senators and representatives responsible for the safeguarding features of the act are backing such men as Thomas M. Woodward, commission and formerly with the shipping board; Solicitor Karl Crowley of the Postoffice Department; Congressman Edward C. Moran of Maine prominent in the subsidy battle in Congress; Otto Praeger of the shipping board; and O. P. M. Brown formerly of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

All these men have demonstrated a lack of subservience to shipping interests.

—HANDLES HUGE SUMS—

The Authority will handle hundreds of millions of dollars in loans and direct subsidies, after outlining a policy as to just what's needed for a merchant marine.

The biggest innovation in the new act is its attempt to guarantee building of new ships through an authorization for the commission to construct and charter vessels, with wide discretion, if it finds that necessary.

Salary limitation of $25,000 and strict accounting systems are provided, plus recapture on profits over 10 per cent, limitation of shipyards' profits on subsidized ships to 10 per cent, and strict regulation of holding companies and subsidiaries which heretofore have siphoned off profits from subsidies.

Operating subsidies will be granted to cover difference between foreign and American costs. Construction costs are to be subsidized similarly, the Authority paying full cost to the shipbuilder, charging the foreign differential to the Treasury, and selling the ship to the operator for at least 25 per cent of the cost in cash and the remaining 75 per cent in 20-year notes.

—VICTORY FOR LIBERALS—

The act, essentially similar to the bill Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania offered as a substitute for the Bland-Copeland bill favored by the lobby, was passed after Senators Black of Alabama and Clark of Missouri had filibustered against the billion-dollar Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill which carried $26,500,000 in ocean mail subsidies.

Lobbyists, who had thought they had the Senate bill stopped in the House, were thrown into confusion. White House pressure resulted in House passage under a special rule, whereupon Black and Clark smilingly stopped filibustering.

It was one of the outstanding victories of the session for congressional liberals, who now hope it won't turn out to be an empty triumph.

"THE SCHOLES MUSIC HANDBOOK" by Percy A. Scholes; (Witmark).

WHILE listening to the eminent New York Philharmonic-Symphony society in the (presumed) comfort of your home you may have heard the retiring, throaty voice of Lawrence Gilman say something like this: "This movement is a kind of savage zapateado. . . ." And if you were dutifully paying attention, you may have been brought up short. Just what is a "zapateado?" you may have wondered. In fact, it's quite likely you have wondered about a good many musical terms which have been creeping more and more frequently into general use. Even if you know a little about music, you may be confused. We discovered, the other day, a fairly competent young pianist who admitted she was puzzled as to which was slower, adagio or largo.

Selby

That's an extreme case, but extreme cases do exist, as well as millions of mild cases. For the benefit of all these the eminent British musicologist, Percy A. Scholes, has written still another musical dictionary. It defines in admirably lucid English nearly 900 terms found in music. The definitions are short and perfectly understandable by anyone. They also are written in interesting English. Surprisingly, they include definitions of quite a large number of terms which the puzzled amateur will not find in even such a work as Grove—for many years the standard reference work.

Those who may turn to Mr. Scholes' little book will also be delighted to find that the author has not been led into involved discussions by the poy of hearing his own voice. Obviously anybody wanting to know all there is to know on any subject can dig out the material for himself.

For the American market Mr. Scholes' book has been edited by Dr. Will Earhart. The changes are very slight, the most important being the elimination of the cumbersome and meaningless British names for the notes. A crochet thus becomes a quarter note, and a demi-semi-quaver a 32nd note.

By the way, a zapateado is a fierce Spanish dance in triple time, in which the stamp of the dancer's foot substitutes for the castanets in marking the rhythm.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE DEVIL COMES TO CHURCH

Strange, how the churches drew us when
Men had to be that kind of men,
And women women. Womenfolk
Could hardly go to church and smoke,
Their husbands go to church and drink.
Church was not something just to think,
And only Sunday. All week through
Church was a thing to live and do.

It hurt the devil quite a bit.
But Satan has a nimble wit,
Inventive mind, and, being wise,
Proposed a simple compromise.
"If you don't mind some little things
To which some gray old fogey clings,
I'll let them come," so said the elf,
"I'll even come to church myself."

And so the matter was arranged.
The church was modified and changed.
And now it's not considered odd
To see him in the house of God.
He'll even join you afterwards
And have a little game of cards.
The devil now is quite a pal,
Considered quite respectable.

New York Column

BY JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—We have never felt any particular affection for so-called child prodigies.

We have, however, a warm spot in our heart for little Bobby Breen, the 8-year-old Toronto lad who warbles away on screen and radio. Perhaps Bobby is one of those rare youngsters who is unspoilable . . . but we doubt it . . . and our hunch is that the credit is due sister Sally Breen, whose devotion to Bobby has never been second to the unshakable idea that Bobby is a genius.

JACK STINNETT

Although Sally herself is only 18, she has been playing mother, manager, promoter, nurse and No. 1 booster to Bobby for three years and with the success that the last year has brought, that is plenty of time for him to have acquired artificially and become spoiled.

BUT in his apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria, Bobby convinced us thoroughly that he is neither.

He likes baseball, preferably first base, "because that is a hot position . . . something's always happening there" . . . and football . . . "I think end, because I like to receive passes" . . . and a girl in Cleveland named Constance . . . who is "Uncle Eddie" Cantor's niece . . . because she is most charming.

He is not very enthusiastic about Hollywood, because there the children go to school from one to five in the afternoon, "which means that I can only play with them between 10 and 12 in the morning."

He is very thrilled over the prospect of going to summer camp in the mountains above Los Angeles near Big Bear lake. When he is old enough, he wants to go to West Point . . . "Isn't it true that if you are a good boy, a good student, healthy and have the word of a senator, they will allow you to go to West Point?" It is, he was assured, and explained that he was certain about everything but the word of a "senator." . . . "Perhaps Uncle Eddie could arrange that for me."

"Oh yes, I do like to sing . . . but sometimes, I do not like it . . . when I am tired . . . but then I sing anyway."

He knows the manual of arms, already . . . He demonstrated it with his sister's umbrella, giving his own orders and executing them with a vigorous snap.

THE story of Bobby's rise to a starring spot in films and before "the mike" is a story of Sally Breen's determination to give him a chance . . . of a struggle in Chicago to win the child a hearing . . . of the eventual ride to New York in a bus when she held Bobby on her lap all the way to save a fare . . . and arriving at 3 a. m., put him to bed in the only bed they were able to afford and spent the rest of the night herself pressing his clothes so they would be fresh for an interview at 9 o'clock in the morning . . . of working herself in a chorus to pay for his schooling (Bobby is in the fifth grade, writes beautifully and reads well) . . . and finally of their "getting the break" that led to Hollywood, as Miss Breen explained it . . . "through a woman who knew a woman who was a friend of . . ."

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

Washington, July 6.—Rome is the most important spot from which to watch developments which are going to lead to the next war. That is why such an important diplomat as assistant state secretary Phillips is being sent there as ambassador. If there is anything in the wind concerning Italo-American relations, beyond that, the state department is managing to conceal it very effectively.

Mallon

The official inside story is that Phillips has always wanted to go to Rome. He is supposed to have quit the diplomatic service back in 1929 because the Republicans would not send him there. It is one of the few posts he has never held during a lifetime devoted to diplomatic service. The burdens of the under-secretaryship have not rested lightly on his shoulders. The unusual appointment therefore is being passed off as a personal matter.

However, it is really a high diplomatic tribute to the ascendancy of Mussolini in world affairs. It is a recognition of the fact that he is the key man in Europe.

Note—Few important inner snarls have developed diplomatically over Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia. That is, there is nothing in particular for Phillips to straighten out. Political relations with Rome are more satisfactory now under the surface than on it. State Secretary Hull is peeved about Mussolini's import restrictions, but not to the extent of donating his first assistant to the task of trying to induce Mussolini to change his economic policies.

—PLANNING—

The day before Florida's Senator Fletcher died, his secretary, William L. Hill, was lunching with pals in the senate restaurant. One asked Hill what he intended to do in the future. "Well," said Hill, "if anything happens to the senator I will pack my bag and go back home and stay there. Maybe, some day I'll run for congress."

A week later he was the junior senator from Florida.

—RUMBLING—

The French are doing everything they can to minimize the gravity of their internal situation, but inside diplomatc advices indicate a serious social upheaval is at hand.

The amazing thing about it is that Colonel De La Roque's cross-of-fire fascists have failed to meet the situation. His Croix De Feu has made no serious effort to combat nation-wide strikes and the trend toward Sovietism.

The explanation is that his organization is torn with inner dissensions. La Roque himself has been afraid to strike. He is fearful of a show-down with the radical element because he thinks they are too strong. However there are those within his party especially some of his industrial backers, who are frantic over the spread of Communism and are demanding that the Fascists take over the government immediately. There is even a movement afoot to throw La Roque out and replace him with a French Hitler.

If that happens, you will see blood in the streets of Paris.

—NEIGHBORLY—

The social security board is trying to get next to Chief Justice Hughes. That is, the board men have been looking over an apartment house in a residential section near the home of the Chief Justice with a view to taking it over as working headquarters. The site is also near the zoo.

—SWING—

One thing which causes great satisfaction among the New Dealers, in contemplating the Philadelphia convention, is that the record made there pledges President Roosevelt more definitely and officially to a left wing type of campaign. They believe the President has chosen the issue and made it definitely now a reform question.

What worries his political strategists, however, is the fact that no president has ever been elected in normal times on that kind of a campaign.

—GESTURE—

Federal trade commission lawyers are forefingering the revised Robinson-Patman price discounts bill to ascertain whether they have something or not. They are having some trouble trying to decide whether they have a law which will permit them to move sharply against chain stores or whether the final modification of the act merely makes it an unimportant gesture. They will probably reach the latter conclusion.

—FLAW—

The American Automobile association is trying to select a representative safe driver in each of the 48 states. Entered in the contest is a Connecticut man who claims that he is not only the safest driver in the world, but the father of NRA. He says: "The only accident I can report was in sending my NRA plan to the Democrats."

An 87-year-old resident of Richmond, Va., says he keeps young by tap-dancing. It is a way to keep from growing old, if the people who live below you are irritable.

We note that renomination was extended to a John N. Garner. That man is here again.

"Rings of Saturn are beginning to disappear." If they are replaced with iron ones, it is a testimonial of Il Duce's persuasive powers.

The Democratic conclave was called Farley's show. This must not be confused with the Ziegfeld Farleys.

MANY ATTEND CELEBRATION

Interesting Program Is Offered by Eagles at South Park

Although nobody managed to climb the greased pole, everybody had a good time at Escanaba's 1936 Fourth of July celebration, held at South park the afternoon and evening of the Fourth, under the auspices of the Escanaba Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Instead of the conventional axle grease, this pole was lubricated with soft soap. Would-be climbers used everything from track shoes to ice skates in their attempts to reach the top. The prize was finally brought to the ground by shaking the pole, but Master of Ceremonies Buck Harwood refused to pay off on the grounds that shaking the pole was not in the rules of the game.

Two concerts were given by the Escanaba Municipal band. There was dancing both afternoon and evening, to the music of the Northern Serenaders and Clayton Leduc and his orchestra. Proceeds went to the Municipal band's uniform fund.

Several special attractions were put on during the afternoon. Among them was a pie-eating contest, in which blueberry pie was employed, of course. Half a pie was allotted to each contestant, to be consumed without the use of the hands. A team made up of two little girls was declared the winner, but not without some argument. "They didn't eat it," declared a small boy who was a close second. "See? It's all on their faces."

Two pairs of husky lads fought a duel with fire hoses, under the supervision of Fire Chief Arvid Johnson and Fireman Jack Floyd. The water was at hydrant pressure, and the crowd shared in the sport to the extent of stopping a bit of spray now and again.

A large fireworks display, handled by a committee of Eagles, was the climax of the day. Colored aerial bombs, brilliant parachute flares, loud flash salutes and "flower pots" on the ground made a fitting Fourth of July spectacle.

Traffic movements to and from the grounds were greatly facilitated by members of the state police, who patrolled the highway in front of the grounds.

Communication

CITY COUNCIL EXPLAINS

Editor, The Daily Press

Your editorials of July 1, and 4, in commenting on the City Manager are unfair. In true journalist fashion you distort the facts. The Press is no amateur. It has been in business for thirty years and should know better than to mislead the public.

The editorial of July 1, in which you refer to the gas plant is misleading. Pete Logan in discussing the gas plant did not refer to the gas plant proper. He called attention to the fact that one third of gas production is unaccounted for. That isn't the fault of the gas plant. But you would have the public believe that the fault is with an antiquated gas plant thereby exonerating the City Manager.

Your editorial of July 4, makes the statement that Mr. Kessler apparently was not given the opportunity to resign. That is untrue. Mr. Kessler was visited by four councilman at his home and was given the opportunity to resign. He refused point blank and became indignant. No one is trying to "get" Mr. Kessler as you say. He "got" himself. And now in all fairness we ask you to retract your statement which is intended to mislead the public by saying that "apparently" the City Manager was not given the chance to resign.

Fort Holmes Replica Will Be Dedicated On Mackinac Island

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 6.—Six hundred members of Kiwanis clubs of Michigan who will assemble here in annual convention next week will join citizens of the Island and thousands of summer visitors on July 11, to participate in the dedication of a true replica of Fort Holmes, one of the northwest's oldest army fortifications, which was destroyed by fire in 1933.

Former Governor Chase S. Osborn, "Grand old man of northern Michigan," will deliver the dedicatory address. Invocation will be given by the Rev. R. R. Kirkbride, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church of Mackinac Island. Historical reminiscences will be told by the Rev. Fr. Joseph Ling, pastor of the local Catholic church and John Dean, district governor of Kiwanis International will respond in behalf of his organization. Immediately following the ceremony, wives of visiting Kiwanians will be entertained at an afternoon tea at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island's famous summer meeting place.

Built by British

The Fort was originally built by the British in 1812 soon after the armed forces of King George III captured Mackinac Island. It was named Fort George in honor of the reigning monarch. In 1815 following the close of the War of 1812, the Americans occupied the Fort, changing the name to Fort Holmes in memory of Major Andrew Holmes who was killed in the battle of Mackinac on August 4, 1814.

After hostilities between the American and English armies ceased and forces were withdrawn, the Fort was little used. It was left to deteriorate. For more than a hundred years the biting winds and raging storms of Lakes Michigan and Huron beat against the hand hewn timbers and dry moat to render the structure unfit for any use or purpose. Standing as an historical landmark until three years ago, brush fires spread to the remaining portions of the once impregnable point of army defense of Fort Mackinac, situated less than a quarter mile distant. Efforts of local volunteer fire fighters to save the remnants of the fort were futile.

In 1935, the Mackinac Island State Park commission delegated one of its members, Commissioner Louis P. Simon, Kalamazoo, to seek means of building a true replica of the fort. The commission obtained a money grant from the federal government to carry on the project and restore the fort to its original state.

From the archives of the War Department at Washington, state officers procurred correspondence, maps and sketches written years ago from the military headquarters of Mackinac Island. Adding to this information the descriptions of the fort that were handed down from one generation of Indians to another, the commissioners, with the help of army engineers, were able to produce a new drawing sufficiently authentic to reconstruct the military outpost.

Resembles Old Fort

Rebuilt on a piece of ground 325 feet above the level of the two great lakes that converge near here, Fort Holmes bears every possible likeness to the structure erected more than 125 years ago.

Natives of Mackinac Island did the rebuilding under the direction of army engineers. Logs cut from the state park on which the fort stands are hand hewn and mortised with rough timber joints. Surrounding the fort proper lies a horseshoe shaped earth glasis covered iwth wooden pickets and hand forged spikes. These slope horizontally to the circular formed timber wall. A massive wooden gate, carved from the trees of the nearby wooded lands, provides the only means of entrance. Circumventing the wall of pickets lies a moat six feet deep.

The newly constructed fort gives a commanding view from all points on the island and from the lake steamers and iron ore carriers that ply back and forth in the channel during navigation season. Directly in front of the fort can be seen the little wooden "dugout" and flog pole. From the top of this hand cut timber pole will be seen the American flag waving to the breezes. Raising and lowering of the Stars and Stripes will be conducted each day during the summer months in conformity with army regulations.

As a special feature of the dedication ceremony and for the purpose of displaying the contrast of modern warfare to that of Revolutionary days, a squadron of airplanes will fly from the mainland of Mackinac county to the island where imitation bombs will be dropped onto the fort in the presence of the thousands of onlookers. Governor Osborn will formally present the structure to the state of Michigan to be held for its people for all time.

Over the week-end Judge and Mrs. Harold Beach of Garden, entertained their friend, Captain U. J. (Sport) Hermann, prominent sportsman and highly respected citizen of Chicago.

The Captain landed his boat, the Swastika at Fayette Harbor coming directly from Washington Island. He expects to leave shortly for Escanaba, where he will spend a few hours with friends.

KIWANIS HEARS TALK BY STROM

Tells Need for Public Interest in Governmental Affairs

Declaring that the lethargy of the American voters has been largely responsible for whatever defects our democratic system of government may have developed, Wheaton Strom, recent graduate from the University of Michigan, speaking at the regular luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon, emphasized the need for the public's informing itself on the pressing problems of the day. While at the university, Strom majored in political science, and in his talk he dwelt on the individual's role in public affairs.

The speaker, reviewing the ascendancy of dictators in Germany, France and other European countries, referred to the United States as "the last stronghold of democracy." He told of the overthrow of the representative government in Germany and Italy by the Nazis and Fascists, respectively, and the curbing of the people's rights until now they are mere cogs in the dictatorial government machine.

Strom pointed to the unsettled conditions in democratic France, and also told of other central European countries which have moved toward dictatorship. England is a very democratic country, he said, but it still has the forms and institutions of a monarchy.

He also explained that the development of the party system in the United States, an institution not provided for by the Constitution, has had a tendency to cause a drift away from the true democratic ideal, although he admitted that conditions necessitated such a development. Democracy involves the participation of the individual in his government, but in recent party conventions the "men on the street" had little to do about the selection of presidential candidates of the Republican, Democratic and Union parties, he said.

Political parties were accused by the speaker of lacking consistency in their platforms of principles. He pointed to the change of the Republican party, an outgrowth of the Federalist party, from a champion of centralization to state's rights, and the shifting of the allegiance of the Jeffersonian Democrats from the principle of state's rights to cencentration of power in the federal government, each party assuming the former position of the other.

Strom charged that political platforms are influenced by the desire for jobs, and referred to the country as being "divided between officeholders and office-seekers."

"This is the groundwork of the nominating machinery in our country," he continued. "The average political leader in the small community is not interested in taxation and other issues but in the postmastership. The real issues are often avoided by parties, while other are manufactured as mere catchwords to catch the votes of people. Issues are usually secondary to those presenting them."

Strom stressed the importance of public education as a means of combating those conditions which threaten the destruction of personal liberties and the benefits of a democracy. Careful reading of magazines and newspapers and honest school instruction were suggested by the speaker as means of educating the citizen to take an active part in the affairs of his government.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

by Ida R. Gleason

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLAIRE FOSDICK set out to drive to the lonely mountain home left her by her eccentric uncle, LYMAN FOSDICK. Claire is trying to decide whether to marry NICK BAUM, to whom she owes money. She also hopes to find a valuable and mysterious jewel owned by her uncle and believed to be hidden in the house.

Her car is wrecked by a log across the road. PAT MAGAN, an old friend, and BOB STEELE, young engineer, arrive on the scene and take Claire to the mountain house where EB SPRATT and his sister, SUSIE, are the caretakers.

DAN DALLAS, the hired man, reports that the watchdog has been shot.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

Susie, fully dressed now, but still wearing her crown of curl-papers, bustled in carrying a big tray. "Ham and eggs, rolls and Coffee, Claire," she announced as she drew a small table up before the fireplace. "Want Eb should lay a fire in here? My, you'll freeze with that window open that way. Land sakes, Dan!" Her voice sounded surprised. "What ever do you want?"

In the doorway stood a man about 40 years old, carrying a black mongrel dog. The man's forehead bore a wide scar that twisted one eyebrow into a perpetual droop, but the eyes that looked out from under it were unusually keen and piercing.

"Trigger's dead, Susie," the man said, looking at her steadily. "I just found him out in those aspens back of the doghouse. Saw him run in there after something and I followed him."

"Dead!" cried Claire. "Why, he barked when we came in. I heard him."

"And almost took a leg off me when we went around with the car," added Pat.

"He's been shot. See?" The man parted the shaggy hair above the dog's eyes and pointed to a bullet hole.

"But—but who would do such a thing?" Claire exclaimed. "And why didn't we hear the shot?"

A menacing chill seemed to grip the room, focusing upon Dan Dallas who held the dead dog in his arms. Why should anyone kill the watch dog? The answer suddenly seemed closely connected with the log across the road. Evidently someone else was interested in the House of Long Shadows. Why?

In spite of Claire's effort to shake off the sinister impression, she felt a shudder of inexplicable terror.

Bob Steele looked at her anxiously and then said, "I think we'd better give things the once over, and the sooner we start the better."

Susie was sobbing softly. "Poor Trigger! The poor old dog!" Then she wiped her eyes. "Come on, Dan. Get a lantern and help me bury him. We'll dig a grave down in the aspen grove."

"If you don't mind, Miss Spratt, I think you'd better not do anything about the dog tonight. It might be just as well for you to stay inside until tomorrow," suggested Pat.

The woman turned with a surprised expression. "What do you mean? Of course it was an accident, just like the log falling down on the road. Probably some hunter took the dog for a wild animal."

"We're not so sure of that, Susie," answered Claire.

For a minute a look of fear showed on Susie's tear-streaked face. Then she shook her curlpapers unbelievingly. "Go on now, Claire. You'll be sayin' next that Eb and me ain't very good caretakers. You haven't found anything wrong, have you?"

"Not a thing, Susie, and I don't expect to," Claire assured her. "But I agree with Mr. Magan. You'd better not go out to bury the dog until morning."

"Just as you say, Claire." Susie's tone showed she was still unconvinced. "But that log just happened to fall down and it must have been a mistake about Trigger. I'm sure of that."

As the door closed behind Susie and the man, Bob Steele turned to Claire. "This dame with the compelling eyes—you don't figure she'd lie to you, do you, Claire? She rather overdoes the protesting act."

"I've never known her to lie," Claire answered. "Susie's inclined to be flighty at times, but her brother keeps a firm hand on her. She's been with the family ever since she was a very young girl, except three years when she worked in the city. We've always trusted her implicitly."

Pat laughed. "Pull up, Bob. Faithful family retainers and all that stuff. No good trying to work up any case against them. Come on, let's shove off."

The next hour was spent in going over every inch of the old house, much to Eb Spratt's disgust. In his opinion, night was the time for sleeping, not prowling up and down stairs.

"It's bad for my rheumatiz," he grumbled to Susie in the privacy of the kitchen, "this stayin' up 'til all hours just because a lot o' youngsters don't know enough to go to bed. Why do they want to pick this time o' night to look the place over?"

The tall old clock in the library was striking midnight when finally the three young people decided to call a halt in the unsuccessful search.

Pat threw himself into a big chair and wiped his forehead. "Whew! I'll begin to sprout sideburns myself if I stay here long. All this old-fashioned grandeur. I'll bet if anyone should try to horn in here, it would be some nut on the track of a carved walnut bedstead or something."

"Probably it's too dark to make it worth while looking around outside tonight, isn't it?" asked Bob.

"Goodness yes," answered Claire. "We'd better call it a day and get a fresh start in the morning."

Accordingly, rooms were assigned to the young men and, after bidding them goodnight, Claire lighted a glass lamp and made her way up the gloomy stairway to the bedroom directly under the cupola. This was a large room and had been Lyman Fosdick's. Everything in it remained as he had left it.

Wearily pulling off her riding boots, the girl climbed up on the high four-poster bed and threw herself down. Tired as she was, the thought of the mysterious shot that had found its mark in the dog, still persisted, carrying with it a subtle warning.

What was this unseen force that seemed to be closing about her? She stirred restlessly. Nick Baum and his hold on her father. These two young men whose path had crossed hers so curiously. What did she really know about them, anyway? Pat had said the dog was alive when they went around to the barn—but was it still alive when they came back into the house? Susie and Eb. And where did Dan Dallas fit into the picture?"

Claire's mind swung back to Pat Magan, and she smiled in the darkness. Again came the remembrance of strong arms lifting her in the darkness. Had it been Pat? She hoped so, though she did not ask herself why. A rollicking care-free newspaper man with an impish smile and Irish blue eyes shaded by very black lashes—well, what of it? Bob Steele had blue eyes, too, very nice eyes, and he had looked at her with the same admiration that many men had given her.

They were both very different from Nick Baum, though Nick was the handsomest. His manner was everything a woman could desire, too.

Claire shivered a little as the coolness of the mountains crept about her. Resolutely she closed her eyes and determined to go to sleep.

But the next instant she was bolt upright in bed, every nerve straining to hear something—she was not sure what. Had some spirit of the long ago come into the room? Or had it been merely the sound of the night wind in the old pine tree? Could it be that she had been aroused by fancy of her own?

She listened intently and finally lay down again, feeling a little foolish. Then it came again. This time the tapping noise from the wall near the head of her bed could not be explained away. Gently, regularly, the muffled sound pierced the stillness. Once—twice. She caught herself numbering the beats as though she were counting a pulse. All power of movement seemed drained from her, except the ability to mark the sounds.

With an effort she got out of bed and fumbled for the lamp. Her fingers shaking, she touched a light to the wick. The feeble yellow gleam that cut an arc in the shadows brought a feeling of relief. The noise had stopped now. She pulled on her boots, wondering if after all there wasn't some commonplace explanation. Anyway, she would look behind the bed—that is, if she could budge it out from the wall. She eyed its majestic bulk doubtfully. Putting her shoulder to the nearest post, she exerted all her healthy young strength. After one or two attempts, she managed to widen a space from the wall through which to squeeze her slender body. Carrying the lamp, she carefully investigated everything within the circle of light. The ornately figured paper was less faded than on the other walls, but there was no mark of any kind or any sign that the wall was not of the same solidity as the rest of the room.

Feeling somewhat disappointed, Claire backed out of the narrow space and set the lamp on the floor so that she could move the bed back. The light fell on the baseboard and she saw a sign in the shape of a broken arrow, a facsimile of the carving on the mantel in the library. The arrow pointed toward the hall outside the room. Here a narrow starway led to the cupola above. It must mean those stairs, Claire reasoned, since nothing else broke the expanse of that wall except a small bookcase.

Excitedly she put on her coat, and, lamp in hand, climbed the creaky steps to the cold, drafty cupola. It was a round, open structure with a conical roof, boasting an imposing weather vane. The cupola made a fine lookout when the owner of the House of Long Shadows had wished to view the country around. Claire had been up there many times, and, even in the darkness, had the sensation of long vistas of far valleys and roads, though she could not actually see them now.

The wind whipped sharply about her and a bat swooped past her in the darkness. With a shiver, Claire began to look along the wall and floor for another sign. The old cupola in the dead of night had lost all its fascinating daylight charm. It was a place of sinister menace.

So long as you find people seeking something outside themselves upon which to fix the blame for their misfortunes or predicaments, you may know that they are not truly adults.

Firemen Are Busy On 4th Holidays

Fires originating, it is believed, from carelessly discharged fireworks or firecrackers, kept the Gladstone fire department busy over the Fourth week-end.

Friday night they were called out to extinguish a blaze along side the Mid-Way Tavern operated by Al Gillis. Saturday there were three grass fires and early Sunday morning the porch of a residence at 1203 Wisconsin avenue was discovered ablaze.

Many local persons are receiving anti-tetanus injections to counteract any possible after-effects of burns received from firecrackers tossed or held too long after having been lighted.

Newberry Enjoyed July 4 Program

Newberry, July 6 — Newberry celebrated the Nation's Birthday in a manner supremely fitting and with a flavor of the old-times which this locality can well afford to maintain. One of the largest crowds ever to attend any event here filled the city at an early hour on Saturday, viewed the fine street parade, listened to Alex Sayles, prosecuting attorney of Luce county, and to Cal Crosshaul, Baul Bunyan authority, tell his stories, and watched Paul Bunyan Criss, the last of the Eight Axemen, do his remarkable axe work.

In the afternoon ball games, stunts and sports engaged the crowd until evening when a street dance completed a perfect day. All credit is due the local post American Legion for their sponsorship of the celebration and the Legion band under Jack Baetz. The band played all day from the starting of the parade until the close of the dance at night, whenever their services were called for.

No disorder, little drinking, but a fine clean time and plenty of fun, featured the event.

The old days were recalled by the insertion of the Paul Bunyan men, and by the chopping and sawing contests in which several of our local artists shone. Two teams of oxen were in the parade. The local woods operators had a fine float, several of the lumbermen had handsome loads of logs on trucks, one ox team pulled a small load of fenceposts with a camp cook in cap and apron, giving his "grub call" on the long camp horn.

The country doctor was on hand in the person of Dr. H. E. Perry who has earned, through long years of service to the community, just that honorable title. In an old car with his driver of other days, he drove along the crowd-lined streets in the parade. Literally thousands of the men and women and boys and girls in that crowd entered this world under the auspices of this physician. Two of the old-timers, almost the only two left, were also in the parade and had seats of honor on the speakers stand where they answered to the truth of Cal Crosshaul's tall yarns. They were Mr. and Mrs. Matt Surrell and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Harris. Matt is a former stage-coach driver, having for several years driven the stage between Newberry and the once-thriving town of Deer Park. Harry L is a former bookkeeper for the oldest company to operate in this locality. Somewhere they had found proper garments and head coverings. In handsome big hats with "willow plumes", in ruffled caps and puffed sleeves, the ladies were a picture of the past, and the men, in "dusters" represented what was once the glass of fashion. And did the crowd love them!

Some handsome floats were also on hand to give color and a modern touch to the lineup. The conservation department had a fine exhibit of their equipment in line. Kids and cars and the usual number of dogs made the parade all that could be asked for.

Also, incidently, Newberry business reaped a harvest at this celebration and the buying splurge on Friday. A bigger business than Christmas, one merchant called it. Dozens of men came in on Friday "to buy a Fourth of July dress for the woman", and this fact, among others, points to more normal times again. All in all, it was a bang-up fine day, thanks to the merchants who furnished the cash and the former service men who did the work.

Republican Rally Planned Wednesday

Newberry, June 6—On Wednesday night the first gun will be fired in the state political campaign when representative politicians headed by Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, will hold a rally and banquet at Newberry. A downstate political writer gives credit to the wonderful country and the hospitality of the people for the popularity of the Upper Peninsula where, he states, nearly all political campaigns both start and finish. At any rate a large party will arrive here on Wednesday afternoon. The program:

4:00 p. m. Three conferences will be held, all in the community building.

Republican Leader's Conference, Howard C. Lawrence, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, will preside.

Republican Woman's Conference, led by Mrs. C. L. Barber of Lansing.

Young Republican's Conference, led by William Bishop, chairman of the Young Republican's Federation of Michigan.

6:30 p. m. Banquet in the community building dining rom. Hal H. Smith, treasurer of the State Central Committee, will be the speaker. Judge Louis H. Fead of Lansing, member of the state supreme court and a former resident of Newberry, will be the master of ceremonies.

8:00 p. m. The governor will speak at the rally which will start at that hour.

Other members of the party will include Orville E. Atwood, secretary of state, John J. O'Hara, auditor general; Claris Adams, president of Michigan League of Republican clubs, James F. Thompson, commissioner of agriculture, Harvey Sherman, Grand Master of Masons of Michigan; Miller Dunckel, secretary of the Michigan League of Republican clubs, State Rep. James G. Frey of Battle Creek, secretary of the state central committee; Judge James S. Sweeney of Detroit, Gus T. Hartman of Houghton, of the department of the auditor general together with Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Hartman. This is believed to be the largest group of state officials to ever be assembled in this city at one time. This is the first of five rallies to be held in the upper peninsula and will serve Chippewa, Mackinac, Scholcraft, Luce and Alger counties. L. E. Redmone of Newberry, chairman of the Luce county Republican committee, is in charge of the event. Several hundred are expected to attend the rally and a capacity crowd is expected at the banquet.

PUBLICITY WORKS

F. L. Furlong, newly appointed supervisor of the enlarged district Six, believes that the campaign of education which the department has carried on through the cooperation of the press is becoming effective. The usual number of fires for the early part of the summer has been held down to a small fraction of the average in spite of the larger numbers of persons using woods camps and fishing in the country. Over July 4th and 5th, a double holiday, when a large number of fires are expected, only eight, all small, were reported. These were all quickly under control. Mr. Furlong reports that the department is very gratified at the fine manner in which the papers are responding and the splendid results of their work.

THOUSANDS SEE BIG 4TH EVENT

Celebration Attracts Largest Gathering Here in Years

The largest number of persons to gather in Manistique for a Fourth of July celebration for many years congregated here on Saturday and enjoyed a program in celebration of the 160th anniversary of America's independence that was unequalled in the city's history. The city was the mecca for thousands who coming from a hundred mile radius, enjoyed a continuous program throughout the day that was interrupted only by the noon and evening meal hours.

The celebration opened with the sunrise salute that thundered a welcome to the day and awakened the city's inhabitants. With perfect weather for the events, the day's program was carried out without a hitch.

The street sports program on the east side of the city was run off between 9:30 and 10:50 a. m. At 11:00 the parade with its many beautiful floats demonstrating the spirit of local citizens and organizations wound its way through the entire length of Cedar and Deer streets. The parade, under Dr. A. R. Tucker as marshal of the day, was headed by the nation's colors and a color guard of army and navy veterans and representatives. A body of members of the local Legion post followed on foot as did the W. O. W. band which furnished music not only for the parade but in concerts throughout the day at the various centers of activity.

The prize winning floats in the parade were: the ship (Goodwill) Harry Swartstrom, first; Lauerman's, second; Legion, third; First National Bank, fourth; Presbyterian Y. W. G., fifth; Progress, Bernard Cody, sixth. Winner of the comic prize was Scott Creighton's mules.

The west side of the city was the scene of the afternoon sports program which was followed by the rodeo and indoor ball game at the fairgrounds. Preceding the evening display of fireworks, a program of bicycle races, boxing and wrestling matches was held in front of the fairgrounds grandstand.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 6 (AP)—Selective advances helped to hearten the stock market for a time today but the blight was on the steels, farm implements, motors, granger rails and a number of the recent leaders.

While business news on the whole had its pleasing aspects, adverse implications were seen in the serious mid-west drought and in possibilities of a major steel strike.

The sharpest drop in steel production since the week of June 2, 1934, may have accounted for the depressed attitude of some traders. But this had been generally expected on account of the Independence holiday.

Grain Prices Rise

Commodities generally took the play away from equities. Virtually all of the cereal, rubber, cocoa and cotton futures spurted to new seasonal highs. Wheat ended 5 cents a bushel higher and corn was ahead 4 cents, the limit permitted for a day's trading. Cotton climbed 55 to 75 cents a bale.

Foreign currencies were narrow throughout, although the European picture was a bit spottier than usual. Lessening of tension on the guilder was accompanied by another cut in the Netherlands bank discount rate from 3½ to 3 percent.

Several department store shares took a turn for the better as retail sales appeared to be expanding briskly.

The motors were in demand for a while as June sales were estimated at the best level for that month since 1929. Chrysler went into new high grouond for the psat 6 years but fell back later.

Although utility common stocks made little progress on the upside, they showed the smallest declines of any group and a few emerged with slight advances.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .5 of a point at 63.5 against a recovery of .4 last Friday. Transfers totalled 844,220 shares compared with 1,020,180 shares in the previous session.

Among gainers of as much as a point or so were American Power & Light 6 percent preferred at 73¼, Public Service of New Jersey 6 percent preferred at 123½, Macy at 43½, Gimbel at 13 5-8, Consolidated Edison at 37 5-8, Douglas Aircraft at 61½, Loew's at 49¾ and Atlantic Gulf & West Indies at 24.

J. I. Case, off about 6 at its worst, came back for a net loss of 4 points.

Most Curb Stocks Seek Lower Levels

New York, July 6 (AP)—Lower levels were sought by most curb stocks today but a number of shares followed oil and specialty issues higher.

Gulf Oil and Humble were prominent gainers. The former rose 1¼ to 80¾ and the latter 1½ to 64½. Great Atlantic & Pacific added a point at 114 and Northern Pipe Line gained 2 to 7½. Northern Indiana Public Service $6 preferred jumped 6¾ to 79½.

Most setbacks were relatively small,: Jones & Laughlin Steel declined 1½ to 32, Aluminum Co. of America lost ¾ to 128¼ and American Cyanamid "B" dropped 7-8 to 33 1-8.

Transfers totalled 228,000 shares against 283,000 Friday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, July 6—By a strange paradox, safeguards intended to protect farmers against low prices for grain turned suddenly today into a barrier against farmers getting high prices.

The largest single day's receipts from the United States winter wheat harvest this season, 5,616 cars, ran headlong into a completely stagnated market that if it were without artificial restraint would almost beyond doubt have jumped 10 cents a bushel or more.

Instead of scoring such a rise, arbitrary exchange regulations brought all wheat trading to a virtual standstill after a feverish rush to buy had whirled values up 5 cents a bushel to the topmost limit permitted in any one day. Business in corn too and other cereals was paralyzed by strait-jacket rules that went autoamtically into force when corn had skyrocketed 4 cents, oats 3 cents and rye 5 cents.

Crop disaster from abnormal heat and drought in the American spring wheat states, and now threatening both the Canadian wheat crop and the domestic corn crop in addition, was the main incentive for today's short-lived general buying stampede.

Every grain on the list closed strong at the day's pinnacle, wheat, July 1.05 7-8, September 1.06½, December 1.07½; corn, July 76 1-8, September 75 1-8, December 70 1-8; oats, September 37 1-8, and rye, September 78. In provisions, the outcome was 7 cents to 50 cents bulge.

Export business in Canadian wheat today was estimated at 1,750,000 bushels.

Provisions rose sharply with hog values and with grains.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 1.02½, 1.10 7-8; September 1.02¼ to 1.02 3-8, 1.11½; December 1.03½ to 1.03 3-4, 1.12½. Corn—July 73 5-8, 80 1-8; September 72 to 72¼, 79 1-8; December 67½ to 67 5-8, 74 1-8. Rye—July 70, 77; September 69, 78; December 70¼, 78½.

BY G. A. PHILLIPS
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 6 (AP)—Renewed buying interest again was evident throughout the bond list today and kept prices in most groups tilted upward.

The small turnover of $8,487,000, par value, was attributed in part to the absence from the financial community of many traders, investors and bankers who were tardy in returning from the extended holiday. Transfers Friday totalled $9,315,000.

Lower-rated utility and rail bonds assumed early leadership and at one time gains of 1 to more than 3 points were sprinkled through these groups. Last minute profit taking brought leaders down a point or so from the best levels.

A sharp rally in Cuban Public Works 5½s featured the foreign department. That issue got up to 49 1-8 ,or 4 7-8 points net higher, before encountering increased offerings. It closed at 46¾. Polish 7s gained around 2 points.

U. S. governments started off at about the same prices as ruled at the end of the week but registered minor improvement as the session progressed and closed 3-32 of a point higher to 1-32 lower.

The Associated Press averages ranged from an advance of .1 of a point in the fireign group to a similar decline in the industrials.

Baseball Greats Meet in All Star Game Today

NATIONALS ARE EAGER TO WIN

Lefty Grove and Dizzy Dean To Be Starting Pitchers

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston, July 6 (AP)—Baseball's dream game, nothing but a horrible nightmare to the proud National League since it began three years ago, comes true again tomorrow with the diamond's shooting stars clustered about to wage a dramatic thriller before an anticipated sell-out throng of 42,000 at Boston National League park.

Embarrassed, ridiculed and defeated in every one of the three previous all-star encounters, the National League forces, headed by Charlie Grimm of the championship Chicago Cubs and fortified with several hustling freshmen, were in a belligerent mood as they awaited the call to battle at 12:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Grimm Is Confident

"It may not be fair to say we haven't tried our best to win these all-star games in the past," retorted Manager Grimm, "but I am confident we're going to have something sweet to dream about after this dream game tomorrow night. This all-star game started out to be an exhibition, but it's serious business now with all of us. We're out to win and we'll shoot the works all the way."

Joe McCarthy, pilot of the fast flying New York Yankees and manager of the American League all-stars, left all the pre-battle statements to Grimm. Marse Joe sent word he didn't plan to arrive in Boston until tomorrow morning sometime and that, anyway, he wouldn't announce his lineup until almost game time.

Except for the information that Vernon Kennedy, star young right hander for the Chicago White Sox, had replaced Tommy Bridges of Detroit on his mound staff, McCarthy sent no news to Boston where the fans were all excited and ready for the big game. Illness forced Bridges out.

The best prevailing guess was that the Americans would put this starting lineup on the field; Appling, Chicago, ss; Gehringer, Detroit, second base; Di Maggio, New York, right field; Gehrig, New York, first base; Averill, Cleveland, center field; Dickey, New York, catcher; Selkirk, New York, left field; Higgins, Philadelphia, third basce, and Lefty Grove, Boston, pitcher.

Gehringer and Higgins were almost sure to play the full game at their respective positions with frequent substitutions at other points. Jimmy Foxx, home run king of the Red Sox who played third base last year, will alternate with Gehrig at first, and Frank Corsetti of the Yankees is set to replace Appling at short.

Following Grove, in order of expected mound duty, were Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit, and Kennedy. Barring unexpected shelling, neither Monte Pearson and Lefty Gomex of New York or Mel Harder of Cleveland were expected to be called, because of recent heavy duty.

Grimm's idea was to send a fast defensive team on the field on the theory that the National League couldn't hope to cope with the heavy hitting, man for man, of the American Leaguers. It was regarded as certain that Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Gas House Gang would be in there early, with Carl Hubbell, hero of the 1934 game, and Curt Davis of the Cubs to back him up.

Starting Lineup

Assuming that the American Leageu forces would open with a left hander, Manager Grimm tonight announced his starting lineup as:

Galan, Chicago, center field; Herman, Chicago, second base; J. Collins, St. Louis, first base; Medwick, St. Louis, left field; Demaree, Chicago, right field; Hartnett, Chicago, catcher; Whitney, Philadelphia, third base; Durocher, St. Louis, short stop.

In the event that a right hander starts for the American League, J. Moore of the Giants will replace Galan, Gus Suhr of the Pirates will play first base, Mel Ott of the Giants will play right field, Lew Riggs of Cincinnati will play third base, and Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh will play shortstop.

Dean and Davis will work in that order on the mound.

Cub executives awarded the 1937 game to Washington at a joint meeting late today and perfected arrangements for tomorrow's game here.

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis will go over the special rules with the rival all-star managers tomorrow, when ideal baseball weather is expected. Under one new rule, no pitcher will be permitted to hurl more than three innings. The new rule was invoked because of the protests made last year by the National Leaguers after Gomez and Harder had pitched all but one inning.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

Walter Marty of Fresno State, Cornelius Johnson of Compton Junior College, California, and Dave Burke of Marquette.

There you have the three lads most likely to win positions on the U. S. Olympic team's high jump roster.

World Champion Marty, with an altitude of 6 feet 9⅛ inches to his credit, is 3⅛ inches over the Olympic standard set by Harold Osborn in 1924 in Paris. However, his position as top leaper doesn't mean that he's any too sure of being No. 1 man on the squad, for he has been defeated by Johnson several times, and Burke, who defeated the Compton Negro in the national indoor meet's jumpoff last winter, has hit 6 feet 8 15-16 inches.

o

Johnson and Burke, together with Al Threadgill of Temple, and Dave Albritton and Mel Walker, Ohio Staters who have neared 6 feet 8 inches, gives the picture a decided color, as all are Negroes. In addition to Marty, the other white hopefuls are Murphy of Notre Dame; George Spitz, veteran formerly of N. Y. U., and possibly Osborn, who is attempting a comeback.

o

The Yanks have little to fear from foreign competition, with the possible exception of Japan. Asakuma, the little Oriental, defeated Marty when the U. S. track and field squad took a world tour last year, and his top mark is 6 feet 7⅛ inches. Tanaka, a teammate, also is credited with that height.

Marty rates Asakuma the best of the foreign jumpers he has seen, while Johnson considers Metcalfe, the Australian with 6 feet 7 inches to his credit, as tops among rival Olympic candidates.

Firpo Marberry Making Good in Texas League

BY FELIX R. M'KNIGHT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Marberry

Dallas, Tex., July 6 (AP)—Fred (Firpo) Marberry, Giant Texas farmer who spent a dozen years on major league pitching mounds, is back in the small time just 60 miles from his black land farm—and still winning ball games.

The big circuits' great relief hurler, turned down by two major league clubs this spring, is a starting and finishing pitcher for the league-leading Dallas Steers in the Texas league.

Fans Like Him

Twice the raw-boned Texan, now nearing 37, has stepped to the hill for the Steers. Twice he has come off with victories. In the first start, his first minor league assignment since 1923, "Firpo" handcuffed the Galveston Pirates with five hits and went home a 5-1 winner. An error let in Galveston's lone run.

"My arm's in great shape," he grinned after the game. "They didn't want to give me a chance up there in the majors, so I figured I'd come back to Texas and catch on here."

He "caught on" perfectly. The fans cheered his every pitch.

"Guess the ball is just a little slicker down here than it is in the majors," he grinned.

Yesterday he knocked off the Oklahoma City Indians, Dixie champions, in his second start. He tired a little in the ninth frame and had to be replaced, but it was his victory.

Marberry left his Streetman, Texas, farm and birthplace in 1922 to join Mexia in the old Texas-Oklahoma league. His start was anything but auspicious. He won seven and lost 11 that year. He went to Little Rock the following year and soon was off to Washington in the American League.

A ten-year turn with the Senators and then Bucky Harris, who left Washington for Detroit, took him along as a relief hurler.

"Firpo" did his relief work well, but in 1935 decided to try a hand at umpiring. One season in the American League was enough.

This spring the pitching urge seized him again. He started with New York's Giants, shifted over to Washington and then came "on back home."

Annual Meetings Of School Boards Scheduled July 13

The annual school meetings in 6600 primary, graded, township, and rural agricultural districts must be held the second Monday in July which this year falls on July 13. While the greater number of districts meet in July, school districts may hold the annual meeting the second Monday in June if that date is decided upon by resolution of the school board three months prior to the second Monday in June.

All notices of annual meetings must specify the day, the hour, and the place of the meeting, the offices to be filled and a brief statement of the questions to be submitted. These notices must be posted at least six days previous to the meeting.

A school officer must be elected by ballot. In primary districts a majority of votes is necessary for election. In other districts a plurality is sufficient. Each time a school board member is elected he is required, within ten days, to file his acceptance of office together with a written affidavit that he is eligible for office. Failure to comply with these regulations automatically creates a vacancy.

The school board of a graded or rural agricultural district is required to meet annually within fifteen days after the annual meeting and elect from its own number a president, secretary and treasurer. The officers of a primary or township district are elected by the voters of the district.
